

The Atlanta Regional Council for Higher Education (ARCHE) builds awareness of the size, scope, impact and value of our 19 member colleges and universities. We work to:

- Strengthen public support for higher education
- Help our member institutions attract and retain the best talent
- Promote economic and community development
- Advance the Atlanta region as a premier place to live, learn, work and play

ARCHE also offers cooperative programs – such as library sharing and cross registration for courses – that help our member institutions share their academic strengths and expand opportunities for students, faculty and staff.

Founded in 1938, ARCHE is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. ARCHE's membership also includes six regional affiliated libraries and 12 corporate and nonprofit community partners.
